About ACTS 29

Acts 29 is a diverse, global community of nearly 700 churches (and counting!) in more than 50 countries. We're characterized by theological clarity, cultural engagement, and missional innovation. Because we believe church planting is the best way to make disciples of all nations, Acts 29 is committed to planting healthy, multiplying churches. We recruit, train, assess, and holistically support churches, church leaders, and church planters. We partner with believers around the world to plant churches in all contexts—suburban, urban, rural, and everything in-between—and in any place where Jesus is neither named nor known.

“

Our God is worthy and our mission is urgent. There's no greater cause we can give ourselves to than making disciples of the nations.

Brian Howard,
Executive Director, Acts 29

Why Plant Churches?

We believe the church is God's primary mission strategy on earth. Therefore, being faithful to the Great Commission's call to make disciples means being passionate about church planting. Local churches stand as a trusted presence in a community, offering hope and help amid trials and tragedies, proclaiming Christ and seeing lives and communities transformed by his gospel and for his glory. As we plant more healthy, multiplying churches, we advance Christ's kingdom on earth. This is the beauty of church planting.
